Honors for a Past Commander. At the last State encampment of the Indiana G. A. R. a committee with Gen. Tom Bennett. of Richmond, as chairman, was appointed to procure a badge to be presented to Past Commender Ira J. Chase. The date for this presentation has been fixed for Tuesday, June 5, at Danville, Hendricks county. Commander Vanosdol, Adjutant-general Walker, and a number of leading Grand Army men of the State have promised to be present on the occasion, for which an interesting programme has been arranged. Gid B. Thompson, of this city, has been invited, and will read his story of the Arkansas Guerilla, which was so well received at the camp-fire of Geo. H. Thomas Post a few weeks ago. About one hundred members of the Indianapolis G. A. R., accompanied by the drum corps of Anderson Post, will attend the meeting, and all the G. A. R. posts of Hendricks, and some from adjoining counties will be present.

Assaulted a Policemau.

The maintaining of order in the city market is becoming a vexations question for the city officials and police. On Saturday night it has become a rendezvous for all classes, and people who attend to make purchases are much annoyed. In trying to make the loafers move on, Saturday evening patrolman Page came near losing his life. He arrested Tom Wooten, a young man living on Sharp street, for obstructing the sidewalk, and as he was about to lead him out of the crowd, Wright Wooten, a brother of the accused, struck him in the back of the head with a bowlder and fractured his skull slightly. For a time it was feared the injury would prove fatal, but the physician now says it will not. Both Wooten boys were arrested and will be tried this morning.

The Harrison Club.

The Harrison Club will meet this evening at Pfafflie's Hall. Many new members have been added to the list, for the Harrison centiment is so strong and active that it is only necessary to ably declare that the suffrage movement has its mention the purposes of the club to secure the co-operation of every Republican. The meeting to-night will be of especial interest in the line of important business that is to be transacted.

Decoration Day Should be observed as often as it comes around otherwise every citizen would be ungrateful to our country's dead. Ryan, the hatter, 21 and 23 South Illinois street, will sell you a hat that is unequaled for quality and style for the price

COMING OF THIRD-PARTY MEN

A Few Delegates to the Prohibit ionist Convention Have as Yet Arrived.

St. John Says He Is Not a Candidate but Chairman Dickie Talks with a Little Reservation About the Nominees.

The stay of the Prohibition delegates to the national convention of their party will doubtless be limited to less time than the local committee on arrangements expected. Last evening there were no delegates in the city, nor any one of prominence in the party, except Professor Dickie, of the national committee, and Walter Thomas Mills. But this afternoon and evening the hotel corridors will begin to show something of a stir in the arrival of delegates. None of those from the East, though, will be here until to-morrow night, and about the time of their coming, or a little before, the Western and far Western delegates will make their appearance. Some of the third-party men who count on an invasion of nosts will be badly disappointed, as no one accustomed to reading indications has at any time placed the probable attendance at more than 5,000. This is the number the less sanguine guess at, sometimes with the qualification that it may fall 1,000 or 2,000 below that figure. At the Pittsburg convention four years ago there were 5,000 people, including delegates. It is stated by some up in prohibition work and influences, that as there is no contest of interest over the pominations to be made, and no uncertainty as to what the platform will be, except in regard to the woman suffrage plank, there is little to aid in swelling the crowd. But those who are coming propose to create enough enthusiasm for double their number, as nearly every delegation will bring with it music and banners. The first evidence of this will be seen to-night, which will be in full force to-morrow morning when nearly all the delegates will be in the city.

Ex-Governor St. John is on his way here and will probably leave Kansas City to-night. His rooms will be at the New Denison. At Kansas City a reporter questioned the ex-Governor as to the probable Prohibition nominees.

"Clinton B. Fisk, of New Jersey, will be nominated for President by acclamation and unanimously," he replied. "No sir, I don't want the nomination, and I would not take it if it were offered me. I want to be perfectly free, so that I can be felt in this campaign for the good of the party. As to the nomination for Vice-president there are only two prominent candidates, John A. Brooks, of Kansas City, and Levi Tanner, of Alabama. Of these two candidates, it is well known among Prohibitionists that Brooks has the decided lead and will doubtless receive the nomination. He was the Prohibition candidate for Governor of Missouri in 1884, and had 10,600 votes.

"What will be done with the woman suffragists?" he was asked. "That question is sure to come up at this convention. I am in favor of making the platform progressive and more aggressive."

"What is the position of the Prohibitionists in regard to tariff? "The tariff should be revised to suit the consumer. As it is, our present system has created too many millionaires, and the party that stands in the way of a revision will surely get left sooner or later. I believe the Prohibition party will favor a revision."

"Will any new ideas be advanced by the con-"United States Senators should be elected by "United States Senators should be elected by the people, and when you do that such men as Ingalis will be left at home. I would do away with the Electoral College, and I shall endeavor to get the party to take that position."

The real work of the convention proper will not be done until Thursday, on account of Wednesday being Memorial day. A part of Wednesday has been set apart for memorial exercises, with speeches by delegates and others of the North and South. It is also the understanding that the delegates will be accorded a place in the procession and in the exercises at Crown Hill Cemetery. There will be a number of side attractions to the convention, including the National Demorest medal contest, the campfire of the Blue and Gray, and the second annual convention of the National Intercollegrate Prohibition Association. The latter convention will be to-morrow afternoon, and the campfire is to take place Wednesday evening.

The indications are that the framing of a platform will overshadow all the other work of the national convention. There promises to be a very excitable time over the proposed indorsement of the principle of woman's suffrage, but dissatisfaction will follow whatever is done. This strong sentiment against indorsing the movement is met by the women who have been relected as delegates. They are coming in large numbers, and will make a strong fight for a plank indorsing their pet theory. It is claimed by those who oppose woman suffrage that it is not an essential question in the Prohibition party movement. They say that a large proportion of the voters who might support prohibition are not educated along the woman-suffrage line; that nearly all the Prohibitionists in the South are hostile to it, and, furthermore, that it would be unwise to yoke two reforms together which to many minds are radically different. Many of the influential delegates, it is said, will urge that the platform say nothing on the subject, but others who fear that such action would drive many of the best workers out of t drive many of the best workers out of the party are in favor of saying something that will please the women, and yet not inderse this principle they advocace. The following is the plank the New York delegation will ask to have adopted: The interest of woman in the temperance reform is so overwhelming, and her influence and vote seem so essential to the final destruction of the traffic, that we most earnestly urge upon all who are friendly to the temperance reform a careful and candid study of the arguments advanced in favor of placing the ballot in the hands of women.

The delegates will claim for the plank that it will burden the conscience of no one, and will accomplish in a large degree the educational work insisted on by Miss Willard and her party.

What the Convention Will Do.

Prof. Samuel Dickie, of Albion, Mich., president of the national Prohibition committee, arrived in the city yesterday, and is registered at the Grand. He came from Toledo, where he delivered an address on Saturday. Mr. Dickie says that his own delegation will arrive to-night and that it will number in the neighborhood of one hundred. They some in special cars from Ann Arbor. He was asked who would be the Prohibition nominee for President.

"Unless something very unusual should happen," he replied, "Gen. Clinton B. Fisk, of New Jersey, will probably be named. There seems to be a sentiment everywhere in his favor and a general understanding that he is to be the "Will St. John's name be presented?"

"I think not. He has peremptorily refused to have his name come before the convention, and I take it that he is in earnest, though if the convention should demand it, it is possible he would make the race. He is an enthusiastic temperance worker, and will not shrink where there is some responsibility to be undergone."

"How about the vice-presidency?"
"Well, there are quite a number of gentlemen mentioned for that office, and it's hard to tell mentioned for that office, and it's hard to tell who will get it. Those mention are Green Clay
Smith and George W. Bain, of Kentucky; Joshua
R. Levering, the coffee merchant from Baltimore; John A. Brooks, of Kansas City; E.
L. Dahovey, of Texas, and J. T. Tanner, of Alabama. It is pretty generally conceded that the candidate for this position must come from the South. Green Clay Smith is probably in the lead now, though it is impossible to say what the convention will do when it comes together. Sam Small, of Georgia, is also mentioned as a possible candidate, though I cannot say whether he has any following or not."

"What position will the party take on the question of woman's suffrage!"

"That's hard to tell. I anticipate a warm time when the convention strikes that point.

time when the convention strikes that point. The most animated discussion of the whole proceedings will unquestionably come up then. A large number of delegates believe in the woman's suffrage movement, and will want something in favor of it put in the platform. On the contrary, the opposition to it will be strong, and probably defeat any open indersement. My judgment is that a compromise measure of some sympathy, or something of that sort, and then say that at the present time it is deemed inexpedient to openly champion it. Those are my private views on the matter. No one, as I said, can tell anything about what will be done."

"What strength do you expect in Indiana this

The railroad companies are among the best customers of the ice-dealers. They are now using but 300 tons of ice a week in the refrigerator cars loaded here for the East, but when the busy season is on it is not unusual for one or two roads to take 600 tons in a week.

Kingan & Co. are still killing about 1,500 hogs a day, one-third their capacity. They are drawing their supplies from Kansas City, Peoria and Chicago. A large per cent of the receipts at the Indianapolis yards are purchased for shipment to Eastern markets. The cool weather has been favorable for such shipments.

Dealers in baled hay state that the business in this line, this year, is five times greater than in any former year. Farmers for miles around, the last three months, have come in here and bought baled hay by the ton, their crop last year having been a failure. The livery stables are depending largely on baled hay for their horses. Eli Lilly & Co., manufacturers of pharmaceutical chemicals, last week closed a contract with the Bowling Green Drug Company, Little Rock, Ark., to furnish 1,500,000 pills, and with another Western establishment of this character to furnish 800,000. At the main house, in Indianapolis, and the branch in Kansas City, this company gives employment to 130 persons.

Business at the stockyards was a little off last week. The Belt road engines hauled but 787 ear-loads of live stock, against 876 for the corresponding week of 1887. The quality of the cattle offered is improving, and from this on Indianapolis and Eastern markets, which draw their supplies from this section, will be furnished with better meat.

The roller-mills made by Nordvke & Marmon Company, of this city, have been selected for a model-mill, the property of a Jackson, Mich., company, which will be exhibited at the coming Buffale exposition, and the Cincinnati Centennial. Afterwards it will be taken to France, Australia and South America for exhibition, in the order named. The building, which is built in sections, accompanies the machinery to all points. Every part is elegantly made, and the mill will make two barrels of flour per hour.

Personal and Society. Mrs. John M. Shaw returned from Dansville, N. Y., yesterday, much improved in health. Mrs. Newman is expected home from Florida in a few days to spend the summer with her daughter, Mis. H .. Carey. Miss Frances E. Willard bad expected to arrive here Saturday night and remain until after the prohibition convention as the guest of Mrs. Sewall; but her mother, whose illness called her from the General Conference, is again worse, and Miss Willard was unable to leave home Saturday, as she intended.

The sale and reserve of seats for the "Ben-Hur" entertainment, on Tuesday and Wednes-day evenings and Wednesday matinee, is al-ready very large, though there are a great many excellent seats remaining. The popularity of the story, and the unique character of the performance is creating a great interest, and there will be few who will fail to see it. The costumes and scenery are true to the country and time, and are followed as closely as the descriptions are given. The rending of the story, by Miss Marion Stearns, is continuous, and as it occurs the appropriate picture or tableau will be shown. Several parties from adjoining cities have secured seats and will be present.

RETURN OF THE VICTORS.

Captain Curtis and Company Congratulated by Friends-Their Account of the Contest.

Eleven young men in bright uniforms, and bearing two or three handsome banners, jumped off the J., M. & I train last night and were immediately surrounded by a company of friends who crowded forward and began offering congratulations. They were the Indianapolis Light Artillerists, who on Saturday captured first prize in the national encampment jat Nashville. From the depot the young victors proceeded to a restaurant, where they took fa lunch, and then scattered to their various homes. The names of the victors are as follows:

Captain—James B. Curtis.
Corporals—John Bodenmiller and Edward Woods.
Privates—Fred Dietrichs, Homer Van Wie, Edward Johnson, Charles Gerard, G. McAllister, Hal Ridgely, A. L. Willard, W. L. Mayhew.

"The encampment was a great success in every way." Captain Curtis said last night; "and as for the victory of our company I need only state that the artillery contest was said by the board of judges to be the best that had ever been held. The Indianapolis boys did magnificent work, and I felt sure when we left the field that we had first place. The award I am quite positive. The award, I am quite positive, was universally satisfactory. The Louisville Battery admitted to us, before the award was made, that we had the prize, and from the tone of the congratulations given us afterward we felt that everyone considered the prize properly bestowed. Among those who visited us personally in order to express their congratulations, were General Jackson, the noted turfman, and General Parmer. Gen. Charles Thurman made the presentation. We were erthusiastically cheered, notwithstanding we had fewer there when we first arrived than many of the other companies. In fact, we were royally treated all the time we were in Nashville, and were paid every attention. They have a custom there of selecting a sponsor for each company from among the popular young ladies of the city. Our sponsor was Miss Hattie Evans, one of the most accomplished young ladies in Nashville, and she, and the young ladies whom she associated with, paid us every attention, entertaining us at their homes, and wearing our colors throughout the encampment. Captain Curtis wants to express his thanks to the business houses with which the members of his company are associated here for giving them leaves of absence.

Grand Champion Harvester Delivery.

Special to the Journal. Manilla, Ind., May 26. - This was one of the grandest days here in the history of this little village, the occasion being the delivery by Mr. C. E. Trees of fifty-one Champion Binders and Mowers, also Engines, Separators and other farm implements, which he had sold to the farm implements, which he had sold to the farmers in this vicinity, making a procession nearly one mile in length. Music was furnished by three full brass bands. There were fully four thousand people on the ground. Dinner for all the purchasers of implements and about five hundred invited guests was furnished by Mr. C. E. Trees, at the hotels and the Christian Chusch.
